

A Mediterranean monarch and his pashas. The Bey of Tunis in the center, surrounded by his principal officials, in the throne room of his palace. On either side of him are the Bey's sons, the one on his right being the Crown Prince. The European at the left is M. Saint, the French Resident General. The European at the left is the British diplomatic representative. There are rumors that the Bey intends soon to abdicate in favor of his son. Underwood & Underwood.

King Albert of Belgium and his Queen, accompanied by their suite, arriving at the Island of Comacina, in Lake Como, which they recently donated to a society of European artists for a colony. King Albert continues to be the most popular Royalty in Europe. Wide World.

England's most beautiful bride of the year, according to general opinion. Mrs. Dudley Coats, who was Miss Audrey James. Her marriage was a notable event because of her fame as a beauty. Gulliams.

At left—Her Majesty Virginia L., Queen of Manila—that is, she is the Carnival Queen just chosen by popular vote in a contest in which two qualities were considered—beauty and character. She is Miss Virginia Llamas, daughter of one of the most patrician families in the islands.

Mr. and Mrs. Ladislaus Fay on their honeymoon in France. Mrs. Fay was Paulette Horthy, daughter of the Hungarian Regent. They were married April 3. There is a possibility that Mrs. Fay may become "Royalty," as there is constant speculation upon her father's desire to become King. Keystone View.

The Santa Maria, which was missing three days after leaving Key West for Nassau, and which was found with its passengers stranded for want of gasoline at Williams Island of the Bahamas. The photograph shows how many passengers the Santa Maria carries. Those aboard are guests of C. F. Reddin, president of the Aeromarine Airways, on a week end flight over Lake Michigan.

Who wants to adopt an orphan? There are many to be had at the Salvation Army Day Nursery in Brooklyn, where this photo of some of the Army's destitute children was taken. Some of these children have parents who cannot care for them, others have no parents at all.